Abstract

If you are a doctor then you must have a dense eye. If the doctor looks at the patient from his dress to naked body then he can get an overview of the patient. Now if he can compare the well body or a standard disease less body's out view then he can think that the patient is affected or not. Though comparing can be more perfect by the use of camera and computer also. If we take care of our body everyday then if there are some deformities then we can see some problems outside of our body. Now if we take help of a computer, where the medicine name is loaded then we can treat ourselves.

When a doctor sees the body of a patient or a person then by looking at the patient or the person carefully he can say that the person is well or not. The five sense organ of a person gives the realisation of the body of the person. If there are some deformities in the inner part of the body then there must be at least one irregularity on the outside of the body. First we will take help from the computer and camera to find out the outside defects of the body of a person, then from our looking, hearing, breathing etc problem in different time's pictures and sound we can store and compare with a real well healthy person's body. This comparison of two body's will help us to find out any disease.

If we say that A be a set of the elements consistent of n body parts like  $A=\{x,y,z,m\}$  x belongs to  $B=\{c,g,h\}$  and B belongs to G. Now if x changes then all the changes on G happens.

If we take the picture of a person and put it into a computer and compare it with a well figured person's picture then we can say that if there is any skin disease the person has or not. Like that every part's picture can give us the complete view of a person by which we can test a person if there is anything wrong then by helping with chemical compounds we can treat. But if we first treat the person mentally then general problems can be easily removed. The surgeon can take the help of knife but I can say that with medicine of homoeopathy (mostly) we can control our body perfectly. If we keep vigil by computer check-up from our birth then there is no need of medicine in our life also we must keep exercises on. Using of computer network will be helpful to us to monitor our body from far away. If we create a one to one relationship with a body and already set condition for healthy body then we can find out the disease. Different types of sound coming from nose and voice have a different sign of disease. Though all may not be harmful but some which are bad can easily tracked by our computer. So if we compare well then our problem is solved.
